Homework

The output of an inverting OP AMP circuit must have an error of no more than ±3%. The input voltage has an error of ±1.75%. What is the maximum tolerance that the resistors in the circuit can have without exceeding the output error limit? Assume that the tolerance of the resistors will be the same.